Synopsis

Hey Coach,

Welcome to the Organized Coach Podcast. I'm Tracy Hoth, your host, and I'm thrilled to be able to bring you this resource. If you areâ€¦

- Constantly putting out fires instead of creating a business that's organized, streamlined, and automated
- Struggling to stay on top of your to-do list, are overwhelmed and bogged down by those administrative tasks
- Wasting time looking for things you need
- Ready to scale your business but need help knowing how to get processes and systems in place

Then, this podcast is for you!

If you want to work less, impact more people, and obviously make more money, then this is the place to be.

If you are ready to create a healthy, organized mindset and feel confident in your ability to organize your office, your calendar, your Canva, your business dashboards, your client experiences, your digital files, and your paper, then I am here for you.

As a 15-year veteran, professional organizer and a certified Life Coach myself, I've helped hundreds of people get organized. But organizing my own business was more challenging than I thought.

I had to figure out what worked, how to create processes, what software programs to use, how to track clients and leads and schedule social media consistently, etc.

And you know what? Nobody teaches us this.

That's why I created this podcast and that's why I help coaches get their coaching business organized.

I'm here to share all the strategies, tools, and mindset shifts that have helped me organize my own business and that have helped me help my clients organize their businesses.

Through The Organized Coach podcast, you'll learn how to

- Streamline your business processes,
- Automate repetitive tasks,
- Build a solid foundation for scaling and growth, and
- Develop a healthy organized mindset.

We'll use organization and automation in our calendar so you can work less, make more money, and reach more people, and make a bigger impact.

I'll have expert guests share how they organize different parts of their businesses.

I'll be learning and implementing along the way and sharing all of it with you.
