Former Marine Sebastien DeLuca is the owner of a martial arts dojang and a dominant in the BDSM lifestyle. He's living out his dream career and doing it while happily single...until she crashes into his life.

Mackenzie Malone is trying to overcome her tumultuous history with men any way she can and decides studying martial arts will give her the confidence, strength, and self-discipline she needs. That is, if she can stand up to her instructor's arrogance.

He has to have her. She can't stand him. He may be the man she needs to free her from her demons, but can she stop fighting him long enough to find out?

An Unexpected Match is a BDSM romance set in modern day fictional New York City.
