Larissa is the child of two worlds. She is a witch and a vampire! Witches fear her! Vampires want her blood! and to complicate matters, she is in love with a human, which is forbidden by both.

Larissa is back at the coven, under the same roof with the Vampire who wants her blood, and the witches that sent her to Mordin prison. They just don't know she is there yet. Those that do know she is there are working to complete Larissa's training so she can challenge for supreme and put the world back in balance. If only Larissa's world, and magic, was in balance.

She is now a mother, and she is missing her other half. Brainwashed by vampires and turned against the witches by a deceitful attack that has dissolved into an all-out war, Nathan is now the leader of the New Orleans coven. While others are pushing Larissa to complete her training, she has only one thing on her mind. Putting her family back together.
