Meet Bradley. He's four years old and is a good boy. But he does a very bad thing. He puts his finger in his nose and then in his mouth. He continues this and realizes he cannot stop. To overcome this bad habit, he falls down a mysterious cave one day and meets Germy, who teaches him about good and bad germs, breaking habits, and all the bad things that can happen if he continues. A great story for parents, children, teachers, and counselors with an entertaining way to teach kids about breaking habits and dealing with self-control. Ages four and up.
