Anne and Brad Young's love for one another continues to blossom. The talented, young, southern designer inspires a depth of new emotions in the handsome surgeon as he finds her love for everyone in her path a magnetic force he cannot resist. But ... can he overcome his frustration with her independent ways?

Anne, on the other hand, finds Brad's loving attentions and boyish Southern charm irresistible as she takes on the challenge of his somewhat spoiled nature. Will their life together withstand professional demands, daily challenges and the possibility of trust issues as they see their worlds so differently?

If you find it difficult to balance your life, work and family in the turmoil of our modern culture, you are bound to resonate with Anne's and Brad's story. But take heart, finding balance may just be possible!
