Veterinarian, Chalmette Logan, has better luck with animals than men. After being burned by love one time too many, she decides to fill the voids in her life with work and material possessions. When she's sent to Anchorage Mississippi for an annual conference, the Cowboy boots and plaid shirts are a joke to her. However, the joke is on her when she discovers that danger comes in different forms. If Chalmette isn't careful about who she trusts, she won't be leaving Mississippi with a bigger paycheck – she'll be returning home in a wooden box.

Deputy Swayne Castleton is the founder of the Crooked Letter Rydah's – a group of Cowboys who rides horses for charity. His father, Sheriff Johnny Castleton, is his hero. With Johnny on the brink of retirement, Swayne, is next up for the Gold Star; all he is missing is the love his mother and father shared.

Swayne yearns for a woman of substance; and when he meets Chalmette, he's intrigued by her personality and her curves. What he doesn't know is another powerful man is interested in her as well, and this could put everything he has worked for at risk.

She's A City Girl. He's a Cowboy. The connection these two don't see coming takes them on a wild chase. So saddle up, grab a glass of whiskey, a lasso, and your own Cowboy to ride for this slow burn romance.
