Someone is murdering Windy City Productions movie stars. But a larger story launches from Denmark before carving its bloody path into the American Midwest. Studio executives & politicians in Chicagoland “Hollywood 2.0” demand answers as the investigation flounders.

At first, Chicago Police Captain Lois Granger believes this is just another nasty serial homicide case complicated by the wild imagination of her pain-in-the-neck suspended Detective Chance McQuillan, a.k.a. McQ, and celebrity Scottish mystery author, a self-styled amateur sleuth, Aubrey Greigh.

Then, tough-as-nails police commissioner Jack Roberts gets a call from Interpol. From that moment, everything changes. But not for the better.

A covert contract Interpol operative on the side, Greigh recruits the suspended McQ to investigate this series of murders as a civilian. Later, with an alphabet soup of agencies engaged, they labor not only to catch a serial murderer, but to thwart a plot inciting treason, international mayhem & mass murder.

The cost of failure? Unthinkable but probable AND all too feasible.
