Conspiracies. Collusion. Plots. Secrets within secrets and plans within plans.

Thanks to Gemma and the nanomites™ timely intervention, President Jackson survives Vice President Harmon™s attempt to assassinate him and seize the presidency. Back in Albuquerque, Gemma makes a difficult decision: She allows the explosion that killed her identical twin sister to serve as the cover-up for her own "death."

Half a year later, Gemma emerges from hiding as Jayda Locke. Soon after, the President™s sole contact within the NSA, an old and trusted friend, vanishes. Did the President™s friend learn the identities of Harmon™s co-conspirators in his plot to assassinate the President? Was the President™s friend found out and eliminated because of what he uncovered?

The President calls upon Jayda (now married to Zander Cruz) to infiltrate the NSA and, with the nanomites™ assistance, identify the remaining traitors. But is the sedition within the government more widespread than either Jayda or the President believed? More importantly, will Harmon™s confederates stage another coup, a second attempt upon the President™s life?

As Jayda and the nanomites breach the NSA™s security and begin to untangle the web of treachery, no one can conceive how deep the corruption runs - or how close it stands to the President himself.
