“Abandon all fossil fuels” or face an unstoppable plague.

As President Coffman struggles to steady her crumbling administration, climate extremists issue a chilling ultimatum: dismantle the modern world or face a man-made virus recovered from the ashes of the Baghdad embassy.

But behind the scenes, Coffman isn’t looking to stop the outbreak—she’s planning to let it run its course. With global cities in chaos, she sees her chance to weaponise the virus, crush all resistance, and rise as the ruler of a new world order.

As the infection spreads and the world teeters on the brink, elite US military and intelligence operatives race to expose the conspiracy and stop the spread before civilisation collapses.

The virus is only the beginning. The endgame is total control.
