Today's topic is one that on the surface may seem like it has nothing to do with your marriage but don't be fooled. This subject is something that I have been intimately studying since about 2006 and I feel that I still barely have it figured out.

This episode is part 2 and the conclusion to last weeks very important episode. Today, I will be wrapping up the discussion on the importance of finding your purpose in life while being married. This episode will go even deeper into this life changing subject,so make sure to take notes and jot down what comes to mind. Enjoy your session!
