

Falling Apart, Falling for You

author: Chris Posti

---

2026-06

Synopsis

---

author	Chris Posti
readBy	Maria McCann
inLanguage	english

A fun, uplifting, relatable, and romantic "later in life" story

Three former friends, now age 57, rally one another through changes and challenges when they get together again for their 40th high school reunion in Port Mariette, a blue-collar town near Pittsburgh in this "coming of age" tale.

Meet the women...

Suzanne. Her disappointing experiences with men, coupled with a demanding job as a traveling corporate trainer, have kept her from remarrying. Now, though, she's convinced she's finally found the man she wants to settle down with. But when she loses her job, her life falls apart—until she learns events can happen for surprising reasons.

Rachel. After her husband suffers a fatal heart attack, she's alone for the first time in her life, struggling to run the family business on her own. Her neighbor wants to rescue her, her son wants to move home to help her, and her old high school crush suggests a new career direction. She's got choices to make, and not just with her business.

Marla. Adrift after selling her thriving chain of women's gyms, she's swimming in money but drowning in pain. Desperate to create a meaningful future, she comes clean about her shocking secrets, and searches for the family she never knew. The town's contractor helps her spiritually and her attorney helps her legally—leading her to choose one of them for even more

Reader's comments

---

comment 1:

â€"â€" ()