Vivian is sick of dating. Sick of the way guys treat her, sick of living and crying by when and if they call...she's just done. When her aunt reminds her that a girl has to kiss a lot of frogs before she finds her prince - Aunt Gail says that number is 50 - Vivian decides she's taking control of her dating life: She's going to go on a series of first dates only, and each one must end in a kiss. She begins chronicling each date - the good, the bad, and the downright unbelievable - with a plan to turn the stories into an in-depth magazine series about the realities of dating in the 21st century. Everything's going along according to plan, until Vivian hits a bump in her road with Frog Number Five, who doesn't seem to understand his role in this deal. And despite Vivian's determination to make it all the way to the big five-oh, when fate keeps throwing this same man across her path, she begins to wonder if maybe it's time to ditch the plan...and kiss just one more frog.
