Omar and Stacy have been childhood friends for years. They have always been close until their senior year of high school when Stacy chose to go to prom with someone else. The choice separated the two, and they didn't speak throughout their freshman year of college.

Now back from summer, the two have different outlooks on life, and see each other during a Fourth of July barbecue. Will their old sparks ignite or have their passionate feelings been extinguished?

Fourth of July Fireworks is a short new adult interracial romance. It is over 5,000 words and is for mature readers only.
