The truths I present are universal and not exclusive to those who work in blue-collar trades. This book is intended for all who go out to work to provide for themselves and their loved ones.

Without question, many of us have already realized a few of the ideas presented. We have been taught these ideas by parents and other mentors. But some folks, through no fault of their own, have never heard any of the ideas discussed in this book. If you're one of these people, then this book is just for you!

Whether you have heard this before and it reminds you of something or it refreshes your willingness to work toward your personal goals or if you are hearing this for the first time, the message is the same. The message is important and the message works.

My message to you is this: "Yes, you are good enough. Yes, you are worthy. Yes, your best is good enough. Yes, there is honor and dignity in all walks of life. And yes, yes, yes, you can be successful while working with your hands in a blue-collar occupation. Yes, you can be successful without formal education or a college degree."

After all, I am a time-traveler, here to give you a glimpse of what can be in store for you in the future.

Hammering Out a Living is part of the THiNKaha series, whose slim and handy books contain 140 well-thought-out AHA messages.
