He longed for someone he'd never even met.

For lone wolf archaeologist Eric Beck, love has always been out of reach - something he's been searching for since the day he was born, never knowing where to look. But on an unexplored hill near Stonehenge, something calls to him. Someone calls to him. And on the day of the summer solstice, his entire existence is about to change...

To love him would set an unthinkable destiny in motion. She was Aydyn. Powerful. Beautiful. Druae. Living long before Eric's time and bound by sacred duty to see through a prophecy that could mean the end of her people. With Eric's arrival through the stone circle, a passion is unleashed - a love written in the stars and designed to reveal the fate of the Druae.
