Learn how to find and invest in early-stage startups with no prior investing experience!
Did you know that with just $100 you can invest in high growth startups just like Mark Cuban and Mr. Wonderful do on Shark Tank? According to Jeff Bezos, the founder of Amazon, the first 20 or so outside investors put in around $50,000 each for a stake of a little less than 1% of the company at the time. If those early investors had held on to their entire stakes, their shares could be worth over $10 Billion dollars today!
Today, it's easier than ever to invest in startups starting with $100. This book shows you how to find and evaluate startups that have the highest potential return on investment. You will also learn:

- How to find billion-dollar startups
- Where to invest in startups online
- How to evaluate entrepreneurs
- Due diligence checklist
- How to write your investment thesis
- How much money to invest
- How to get started investing in startups

Ownership in startups is how the most successful entrepreneurs and investors built their wealth. By investing in startups, you can have a higher potential ROI than the stock market, real estate and even cryptocurrency!

“We’re entering a world where ownership matters as much as investing, and the first is often made possible by the second. A future exists where not only startups, but music, art, retail, travel, and hundreds of other industries are driven by the communities of people who create, support, and actually own a piece of them.”
