I found myself stealing little moments in the day to sneak a few more pages in before my nightly read. • Gladys Kravitz, Amazon reviewer

A mysterious caravan. An affliction left in their wake. Townspeople are being struck blind after a group of travelers pass through, each victim's eyes removed by an ethereal whip and replaced with shadowy black pits. Calec and Serileen pursue the caravan, hunting a specific merchant who is a suspect in Serileen's mother's death. But the number of victims climb and draws them deeper into the Horseman's web of deceit. Serileen aims to uncover the lies of the merchant in question while Calec must unmask an adversary bent on destroying the caravan from within. There are no clues left behind and no alibis, only haunting visions seen by the afflicted. As Calec draws closer, the Horseman's whip will lash out for him at the potential cost of his life and soul.

Note: Each Calec Horror Mystery is a complete story without a cliffhanger ending, but there are some secondary questions that continue throughout the series. These stories can be read and enjoyed in any order.
