When was the last time you were willing to let go of something you normally hold onto with a white-knuckle grip? How often does someone ask you about your life or work, and you don't know how to respond?

How you answer those questions is important, because they hint at your passions. At some point in our lives, we're given an opportunity for our passions to fuel our purpose.

And if we're only willingâ€”that purpose might lead to the most daunting move of all.

Leap! is about a call to action. To grow in our faith, let go of the reins, and give EVERYTHING over to God in the process. Colin experienced that reality firsthandâ€”going from a baseball manager to an NFL draft pick. Through ups and downs, his message is one he's come to know very well:

We weren't meant to jump alone.
