I just wanted to make peace with the man. I never expected it to turn into some kind of marathon sex session!

Hannah thinks she's doing pretty well for a 20-year-old girl. After inheriting some money from her uncle, she buys a property with three little apartments and a house. She lives in the house and goes about renting the three little apartments. She's smart and works hard. But her neighbor irritates her. He may be a sexy older man but he's getting tired of all the noise from the work at the building and the constant stream of potential tenants.

When he shows up to confront her, they have a big fight. In fact, they argue for weeks on end. Then, one day, a fight turns into something else, and they end up in the midst of passion instead. It's a crazy way to start an age gap romance, but is there any hope for something there?
