A horror/comedy fiction audio drama podcast set in the Hawaiian Islands which reimagines some of the urban legends and ghost stories that local Hawaii residents have grown up with and asks the question, "What if a well-intentioned but out of his element paranormal investigator tackled these cases?" Harry Wong runs Paranormal Investigations Hawaii based in Downtown Honolulu. A former police officer, Harry left the force under mysterious circumstances to devote himself full time to investigating claims of the paranormal. Each episode features a different urban legend where Harry will attempt to unravel the underlying mysteries of the case while searching for something important which he thinks can only be found amongst the ghosts and demons he encounters. That is if he can survive them first.
