Can't Wait...is a fantasy Directed Erotic Visualisation sexual experience that takes the female listener on a deeply erotic journey to intense satisfaction at their own hands and those of a very demanding lover.

Fresh from a shower you are getting ready to go out on a date with a lover who really pushes your buttons. Just thinking about what might happen is getting you riled up, so much so you have to take care of things or else you will be out of control. You imagine your lover touching you and one thing leads to another....

Your lover has sent you a gift, a very revealing and sexy dress to wear on your date that is so flattering you can imagine their reaction when they see you. Thinking about them getting aroused, as you slip into the silky soft dress gets you hot all over again. Before you know it you really need another shower but there is no more time and your date arrives. What happens in the hallway when they see you and sense just how ready for them you are, is totally overwhelming. You never do make it out on that date, instead you end up in bed and it is much better than you could have imagined.

Lose yourself in this experience where you both want it all and you want it right now! Something a little different and special are the Audio Experiences that make use of a unique audio technique called Directed Erotic Visualisation, or DEV.

DEV is an Immersive Audio Experience similar to 3D Audio, a blend of guided meditation, visualisation, relaxation and suggestion techniques that can put you right into the thick of a story, you can feel it, touch it and...well listen for yourself; over 1.4 million men and women have listened to DEV audio experiences since December 2007.

Note: DEV experiences should not be used while driving or using heavy machinery or for 30 minutes after listening.
