You know you're lonely when your best friend is a rock. Fearing for his life, Rhone clasps Stone's collar to his neck, and runs, trying to evade Commissioner Dodge and his black vested men. But his only out seems to be the badlands, a place named for a very good reason. Even there, fate seems to be against him, as Rhone is left for dead, and Stone, his unique crystalline friend is taken. It's only when the OPR, the government agency sent to look into the dealings of Commissioner Dodge, unknowingly brings diversions to the chase, that Rhone is able find and rescue his friend. A unique story of the old west, the way you never heard. A genre crossing, Western/SciFi, alien contact, survival story you won't forget. A truly fun listen. From award winning author Strider S.R. Klusman
