Eden

One night it was meant to be just that. A fleeting escape, a momentary itch to scratch before walking away with a secret smile in the morning. Now, I find myself entangled in Viper's world, thanks to shady dealings at work that extend their reach to him and his club. Going against my oath, I reveal what I know to protect his son from paying the price, only to discover there's more to this than meets the eye. Now a potential target for the local mafia boss, Viper refuses to let me face the danger alone. Juggling a job that just got a lot more dangerous while trying to keep him at arm's length is next to impossible. And I can feel myself weakening because the man is far too hard to resist.

Viper

I want my son by my side, and I'll move mountains to make it happen. Little did I know that it would resurrect her presence in my life. She's the woman I've been looking for since our passionate night, and I won't let her slip away again. No matter the hurdles, I'm determined to convince her to give us a chance. When she brings intel that entangles her in our war against the local mafia boss, I realize I'll never let her go. As her connection to the club becomes exposed, I'm poised to reveal why they call me Viper—I'm a dangerous force ready to strike to protect what's mine, including her, whether she's prepared or not.
