You can have a satisfying career. Are you a school principal who is completely fed up with conflicting priorities and misalignment in our nation's schools? It's no surprise you feel overwhelmed and exhausted. Every day, you deal with federal and state regulations, district policies, and parental pressures. The expectations on educators are higher than ever, tempting many principals to consider alternate livelihoods. How amazing would it feel to take control of your own career and make decisions from a place of empowerment and clarity?

In The Empowered Principal, Angela Kelly Robeck, a former school leader and teacher for 25 years, shares with you:

- How to manage feelings of overwhelm and frustration
- The reason we stay in the job even when we feel burned out
- How to confidently stay or peacefully go - and which to choose
- Why we are afraid to speak up as educators
- How to work each day with joy and accomplishment

The Empowered Principal is like Martha Beck's Finding Your Own North Star meets Ken Robinson's Creative Schools. If you are ready to reform the way you live and work as an educational leader, this is a must-listen!
