From USA Today best-selling author Claudia Burgoa comes a best friend’s little sister, single dad romance featuring a hot doctor and his sweet little daughter.

I’ve been in love with Benedict Farrow since I was 14 years old. He’s my older brother’s best friend. One night we almost crossed that line. One night I almost got everything I wanted. Now he’s moved back to our small town—a hot single dad with a daughter. But I have finally moved on. I have a boyfriend who I actually like. I let Benedict go—Didn’t I? Hot, arrogant, confident Dr. Benedict Farrow is out of my life. At least, I think he is. But when he makes me laugh, I wonder if I ever got over him. There’s no one who knows me better than him. How can someone I loved so much cause me so much pain now? If we went there again, it would ruin everything.

Where We Belong is an angsty-filled story of forbidden love, second chances, and the healing power of family. This is a must-listen for fans of small-town romances and hot doctors with a heart of gold.
